The Language of Mass Shooter Manifestos Emily Powell, 2025-05-30 Bringing together scholarship from corpus linguistics forensic linguistics and criminology this book offers a nuanced exploration of moral agency in the pre crime narratives of offenders The volume seeks to complement existing literature in forensic linguistics which often explore criminal narratives elicited after the crime with the benefit of hindsight by examining texts written in the midst of events Analyses draw on a corpus of over 200 000 words of manifestos and diaries written by four lone attackers who perpetrated mass shootings and put together accounts of their lives and the preparation for their crimes Incorporating stylistic approaches to non fiction texts with those from corpus linguistics Powell explores the ways in which these texts influence perpetrators and future offenders and more broadly the role of narrative as it relates to harmful actions A closing section includes a taxonomy of moral agency which may serve as the foundation for future research on understanding agency responsibility and offending from a linguistic perspective This book will be of interest to scholars in forensic linguistics corpus linguistics stylistics and criminology

Clinical Pathways in Stroke Rehabilitation Thomas Platz, 2021-01-14

This open access book focuses on practical clinical problems that are frequently encountered in stroke rehabilitation. Consequences of diseases e.g. impairments and activity limitations are addressed in rehabilitation with the overall goal to reduce disability and promote participation. Based on the available best external evidence, clinical pathways are described for stroke rehabilitation, bridging the gap between clinical evidence and clinical decision making. The clinical pathways answer the questions which rehabilitation treatment options are beneficial to overcome specific impairment constellations and activity limitations and are well acceptable to stroke survivors as well as when and in which settings to provide rehabilitation over the course of recovery post stroke. Each chapter starts with a description of the clinical problem encountered. This is followed by a systematic but concise review of the evidence: RCTs, systematic reviews and meta-analyses that is relevant for clinical decision making and comments on assessment, therapy, training, technology, medication and the use of technical aids as appropriate. Based on these summaries, clinical algorithms/pathways are provided and the main clinical decision situations are portrayed. The book is invaluable for all neurorehabilitation team members: clinicians, nurses and therapists in neurology, physical medicine and rehabilitation and related fields. It is a World Federation for NeuroRehabilitation (WFNR) educational initiative bridging the gap between the rapidly expanding clinical research in stroke rehabilitation and clinical practice across societies and continents. It can be used for both clinical decision making for individuals and as well as clinical background knowledge for stroke rehabilitation service development initiatives.

The Promise of Assistive Technology to Enhance Activity and Work Participation National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Health and Medicine Division, Board on Health Care Services, Committee on the Use of Selected Assistive Products and Technologies in Eliminating or Reducing the Effects of Impairments, 2017-09-01. The U.S. Census Bureau has reported that 56.7 million Americans had some type of disability in 2010 which represents 18.7 percent of the civilian noninstitutionalized population included in the 2010 Survey of Income and Program Participation. The U.S. Social Security Administration (SSA) provides disability benefits through the Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI) program and the Supplemental Security Income (SSI) program. As of December 2015, approximately 11 million individuals were SSDI beneficiaries and about 8 million were SSI beneficiaries. SSA currently considers assistive devices in the nonmedical and medical areas of its program guidelines. During determinations of substantial gainful activity and income eligibility for SSI benefits, the reasonable cost of items, devices or services applicants need to enable them to work with their impairment is subtracted from eligible earnings even if those items or services are used for activities of daily living in addition to work. In addition, SSA considers assistive devices in its medical disability determination process and assessment of work capacity. The Promise of Assistive Technology to Enhance Activity and Work Participation provides an analysis of selected assistive products and technologies including wheeled and seated mobility devices, upper extremity prostheses and products and technologies selected by the committee that pertain to hearing and to communication and speech in adults.
