

Fig. 2

To Operate the Hand Machine.

Tighten the balance wheel, and after placing a piece of material under the presser foot (2, Fig. 2), turn the handle from you with an easy and regular motion. Continue to do this until you are able to guide the material correctly with the left hand.

The advantages of a treadle machine, compared with a hand machine, are greater speed and, both hands being free, a greater variety of work can be accomplished.

To Ensure Perfect Action of the Machine.

The balance wheel must always turn towards you.

The presser foot must be raised, except when sewing.

Do not work the machine with the bobbin case (1, Fig. 6) and the needle threaded, except when sewing.

The slide (3, Fig. 6) must be kept closed.

To Thread the Needle

(See Fig. 3).

Pass thread from reel through the wire guide (12), down under and from right to left between the tension discs (14), over the small spring (5) at left of the discs, under the slack thread regulator *(6), up and from right to left through the hole (11) in take-up lever, down into the eyelet (7), into the wire guide (9); then from left to right through the eye of the needle, leaving an end of thread three or four inches long when the thread take-up lever (11) is at its highest point.

NOTE—For darning and embroidery work, pass the thread through the hole in the slack thread regulator (6), instead of under it.*

For threading the needle, use the Singer Needle Threader. It saves time, trouble and patience.

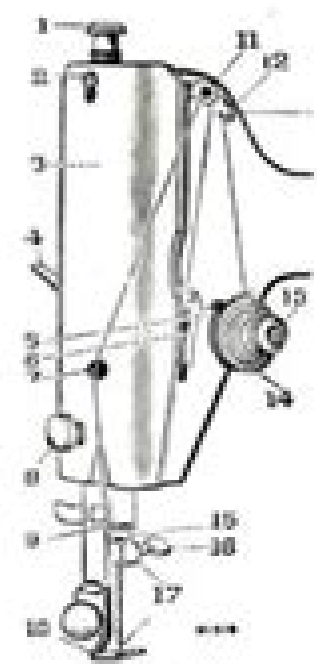

Fig. 3

To Set the Needle

(See Fig. 3).

Raise the needle bar (15) to its highest point and loosen the thumb screw (16); hold the needle with the left hand and, with its flat side towards the balance wheel, insert it into the needle clamp (17) as far as it will go; then retighten the thumb screw.
