A National Strategy for the Elimination of Hepatitis B and C National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Health and Medicine Division, Board on Population Health and Public Health Practice, Committee on a National Strategy for the Elimination of Hepatitis B and C, 2017-07-30 Hepatitis B and C cause most cases of hepatitis in the United States and the world The two diseases account for about a million deaths a year and 78 percent of world s hepatocellular carcinoma and more than half of all fatal cirrhosis In 2013 viral hepatitis of which hepatitis B virus HBV and hepatitis C virus HCV are the most common types surpassed HIV and AIDS to become the seventh leading cause of death worldwide The world now has the tools to prevent hepatitis B and cure hepatitis C Perfect vaccination could eradicate HBV but it would take two generations at least In the meantime there is no cure for the millions of people already infected Conversely there is no vaccine for HCV but new direct acting antivirals can cure 95 percent of chronic infections though these drugs are unlikely to reach all chronically infected people anytime soon This report the second of two builds off the conclusions of the first report and outlines a strategy for hepatitis reduction over time and specific actions to achieve them

Automated Vehicles are Probably Legal in the United States Bryant Walker Smith, 2012 Note This is the original 2012 report An updated 2014 law review article is available as 1 Tex A M L Rev 411 This report provides the most comprehensive discussion to date of whether so called automated autonomous self driving or driverless vehicles can be lawfully sold and used on public roads in the United States The short answer is that the computer direction of a motor vehicle s steering braking and accelerating without real time human input is probably legal The long answer contained in the report provides a foundation for tailoring regulations and understanding liability issues related to these vehicles The report s largely descriptive analysis which begins with the principle that everything is permitted unless prohibited covers three key legal regimes the 1949 Geneva Convention on Road Traffic regulations enacted by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration NHTSA and the vehicle codes of all fifty US states The Geneva Convention to which the United States is a party probably does not prohibit automated driving The treaty promotes road safety by establishing uniform rules one of which requires every vehicle or combination thereof to have a driver who is at all times able to control it However this requirement is likely satisfied if a human is able to intervene in the automated vehicle s operation NHTSA s regulations which include the Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standards to which new vehicles must be certified do not generally prohibit or uniquely burden automated vehicles with the possible exception of one rule regarding emergency flashers State vehicle codes probably do not prohibit but may complicate automated driving These codes assume the presence of licensed human drivers who are able to exercise human judgment and particular rules may functionally require that presence New York somewhat uniquely directs a driver to keep one hand on the wheel at all times In addition far more common rules mandating reasonable prudent practicable and safe driving have uncertain application to automated vehicles and their users Following distance requirements may also restrict the lawful operation of tightly spaced vehicle platoons Many of these issues arise even in the three states that expressly regulate automated vehicles The primary purpose of this report is to assess the current legal status of automated vehicles However the report includes draft language for US states that wish to clarify this status It also recommends five near term measures that may help increase legal certainty without producing premature regulation First regulators and standards organizations should develop common vocabularies and definitions that are useful in the legal technical and public realms Second the United States should closely monitor efforts to amend or interpret the 1969 Vienna Convention which contains language similar to the Geneva Convention but does not bind the United States Third NHTSA should indicate the likely scope and schedule of potential regulatory action Fourth US states should analyze how their vehicle codes would or should apply to automated vehicles including those that have an identifiable human operator and those that do not Finally additional research on laws applicable to trucks buses taxis low speed vehicles and other specialty vehicles may be useful This is in addition to ongoing research into the other legal aspects of vehicle automation

Canada's Relationship with Inuit Sarah Bonesteel, 2008 Inuit have lived in Canada's north since time immemorial The Canadian government's administration of Inuit affairs however has been generally shorter and is less well understood than the federal government's relations with First Nations and Métis We hope to correct some of this knowledge imbalance by providing an overview of the federal government's Inuit policy and program development from first contact to 2006 Topics that are covered by this book include the 1939 Re Eskimo decision that gave Canada constitutional responsibility for Inuit post World War II acculturation and defence projects law and justice sovereignty and relocations the E number identification system Inuit political organizations comprehensive claim agreements housing healthcare education economic development self government the environment and urban issues In order to develop meaningful forward looking policy it is essential to understand what has come before and how we got to where we are We believe that this book will be a valuable contribution to a growing body of knowledge about Canada Inuit relations and will be an indispensable resource to all students of federal Inuit and northern policy development
