Global Climate Change Impacts in the United States U.S. Global Change Research Program, 2009-08-24 Summarizes the science of climate change and impacts on the United States for the public and policymakers A National Strategy for the Elimination of Hepatitis B and C National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Health and Medicine Division, Board on Population Health and Public Health Practice, Committee on a National Strategy for the Elimination of Hepatitis B and C, 2017-07-30 Hepatitis B and C cause most cases of hepatitis in the United States and the world The two diseases account for about a million deaths a year and 78 percent of world's hepatocellular carcinoma and more than half of all fatal cirrhosis In 2013 viral hepatitis of which hepatitis B virus HBV and hepatitis C virus HCV are the most common types surpassed HIV and AIDS to become the seventh leading cause of death worldwide The world now has the tools to prevent hepatitis B and cure hepatitis C Perfect vaccination could eradicate HBV but it would take two generations at least In the meantime there is no cure for the millions of people already infected Conversely there is no vaccine for HCV but new direct acting antivirals can cure 95 percent of chronic infections though these drugs are unlikely to reach all chronically infected people anytime soon This report the second of two builds off the conclusions of the first report and outlines a strategy for hepatitis reduction over time and specific actions to achieve them Mountain Weather Research and Forecasting Fotini K. Chow, Stephan F.J. De Wekker, Bradley J. Snyder, 2012-08-30 This book provides readers with a broad understanding of the fundamental principles driving atmospheric flow over complex terrain and provides historical context for recent developments and future direction for researchers and forecasters The topics in this book are expanded from those presented at the Mountain Weather Workshop which took place in Whistler British Columbia Canada August 5-8 2008 The inspiration for the workshop came from the American Meteorological Society AMS Mountain Meteorology Committee and was designed to bridge the gap between the research and forecasting communities by providing a forum for extended discussion and joint education For academic researchers this book provides some insight into issues important to the forecasting community For the forecasting community this book provides training on fundamentals of atmospheric processes over mountainous regions which are notoriously difficult to predict The book also helps to provide a better understanding of current research and forecast challenges including the latest contributions and advancements to the field The book begins with an overview of mountain weather and forecasting challenges specific to complex terrain followed by chapters that focus on diurnal mountain valley flows that develop under calm conditions and dynamically driven winds under strong forcing The focus then shifts to other phenomena specific to mountain regions Alpine foehn boundary layer and air quality issues orographic precipitation processes and microphysics parameterizations Having covered the major physical processes the book shifts to observation and modelling techniques used in mountain regions including model configuration and parameterizations such as turbulence and model applications in operational forecasting The book concludes with a discussion of the current state of research and forecasting in complex terrain including a vision of how to bridge the gap in the future      Tourism and Trails Dallen J. Timothy, Stephen W. Boyd, 2015 This book provides a comprehensive overview of trails and routes from a tourism and recreation perspective This cutting edge volume addresses conceptual and management issues systematically examining supply demand development and impacts associated with trails and routes      Automated Vehicles are Probably Legal in the United States Bryant Walker Smith, 2012 Note This is the original 2012 report An updated 2014 law review article is available as 1 Tex A M L Rev 411 This report provides the most comprehensive discussion to date of whether so called automated autonomous self driving or driverless vehicles can be lawfully sold and used on public roads in the United States The short answer is that the computer direction of a motor vehicle s steering braking and accelerating without real time human input is probably legal The long answer contained in the report provides a foundation for tailoring regulations and understanding liability issues related to these vehicles The report s largely descriptive analysis which begins with the principle that everything is permitted unless prohibited covers three key legal regimes the 1949 Geneva Convention on Road Traffic regulations enacted by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration NHTSA and the vehicle codes of all fifty US states The Geneva Convention to which the United States is a party probably does not prohibit automated driving The treaty promotes road safety by establishing uniform rules one of which requires every vehicle or combination thereof to have a driver who is at all times able to control it However this requirement is likely satisfied if a human is able to intervene in the automated vehicle s operation NHTSA s regulations which include the Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standards to which new vehicles must be certified do not generally prohibit or uniquely burden automated vehicles with the possible exception of one rule regarding emergency flashers State vehicle codes probably do not prohibit but may complicate automated driving These codes assume the presence of licensed human drivers who are able to exercise human judgment and particular rules may functionally require that presence New York somewhat uniquely directs a driver to keep one hand on the wheel at all times In addition far more common rules mandating reasonable prudent practicable and safe driving have uncertain application to automated vehicles and their users Following distance requirements may also restrict the lawful operation of tightly spaced vehicle platoons Many of these issues arise even in the three states that expressly regulate automated vehicles The primary purpose of this report is to assess the current legal status of automated vehicles However the report includes draft language for US states that wish to clarify this status It also recommends five near term measures that may help increase legal certainty without producing premature regulation First regulators and standards organizations should develop common vocabularies and definitions that are useful in the legal technical and public realms Second the United States should closely monitor efforts to amend or interpret the 1969 Vienna Convention which contains language similar to the Geneva Convention but does not bind the United States Third NHTSA should indicate the likely scope and schedule of potential regulatory action Fourth US states should analyze how their vehicle codes would or should apply to automated vehicles including those that have an identifiable human operator and those that do not Finally additional research on laws applicable to trucks buses taxis low speed vehicles and other specialty vehicles may be useful This is in addition to ongoing research into the other legal aspects of vehicle automation
